1. Purpose of the product

Do you have multiple streaming services and are tired of switching between them to find the right move? Popcorn is your solution. This website includes all movies listed in IMDB from all streaming services located in one place. As a user you can switch between the streaming services in one place, along with different genres. Once you create an account, you are given the opportunity to pick your favorite 3 genre of movies and from there your homepage will be curated with movies recommended in those genres by highest rating. From the home page you are able to switch between genres and streaming services.

2. Understanding the user interface

This is the welcome page. You know you have reached the correct website when you see this page welcoming you to your future movie catalog.

To begin your journey inside the website, you will need to sign in with an existing account or create an account. To begin either function you will use the buttons sign in or create account located at the top right corner

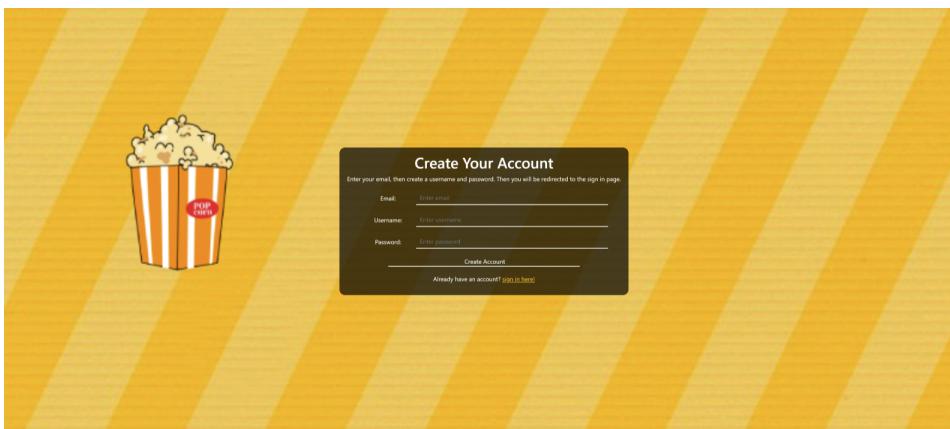

If you have an account, you will choose the sign in function that will bring you to this page below:

As per the example, you will sign in with your username and password

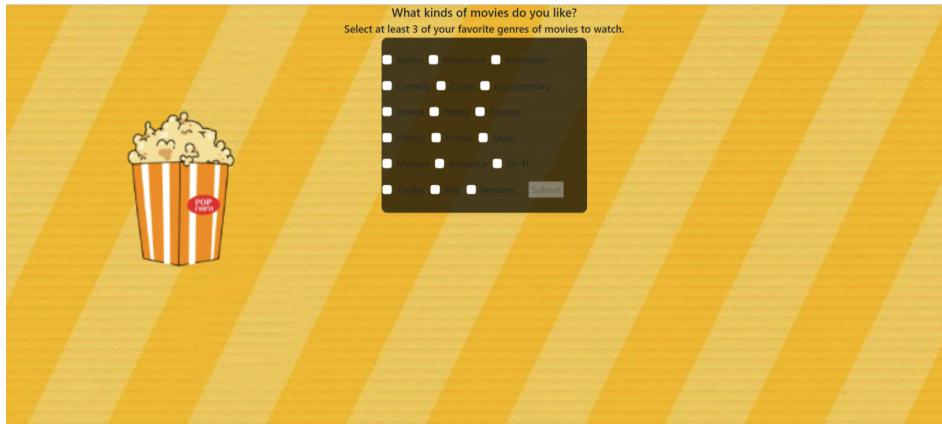

If you DO NOT have an account with the site, you will be directed to the create account screen which can be located either from the sign in screen as seen above or from the button on the welcome screen that says create an account. You will be directed to the page below

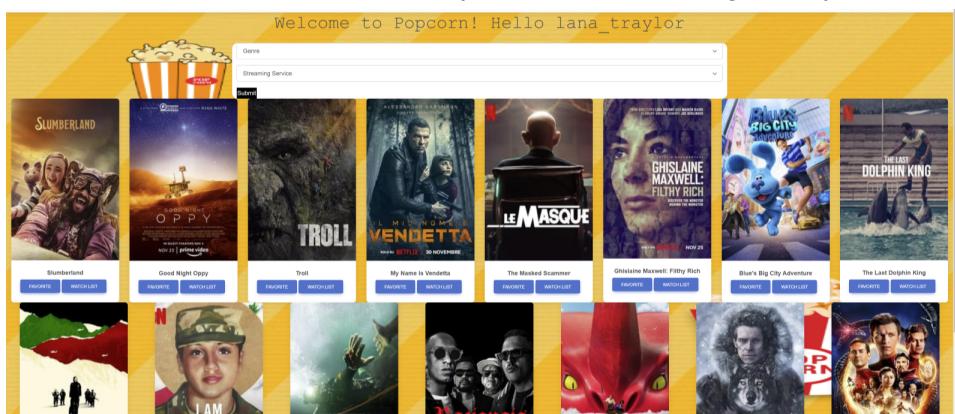

To accurately create your account you must enter your email, a username that is an original and has not been previously used, as well as a password that must include one capital letter, one lowercase letter, a number and a special character.

After successfully creating an account, you will be presented with the genre screen. The screen, as seen below, gives you the opportunity to pick at least 3 genres for the recommendation system.

After picking your genre selections or after signing in, you will be presented with the homepage filled with movies recommended to you based off of the genres you have chosen.

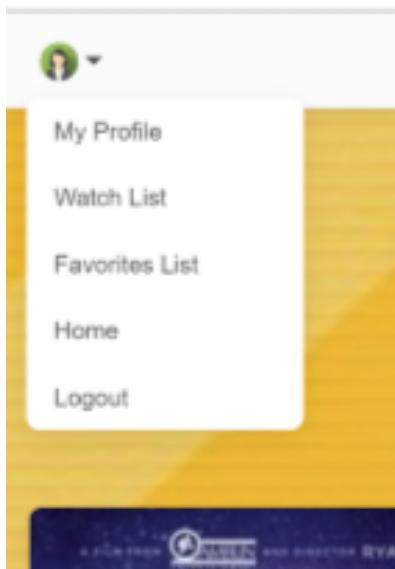

From this point, you can choose a different genre and streaming services from the bar located above the movies, shown in the picture below

Once you see the movie of your choice, you have the option of adding to your watchlist or favorites using the buttons located underneath the movie poster, shown in picture below

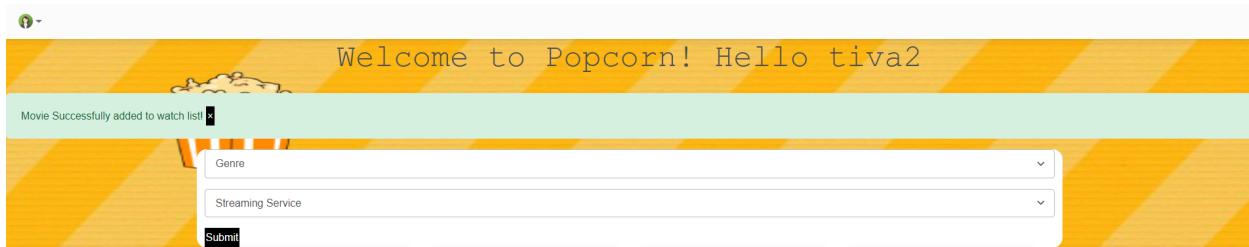

Once you have added the movies to either list you can access the list you placed them in by clicking the avatar located in the top left corner of the navigation bar. An image depicting this is shown below.

From this panel, you can also locate back to the homepage as well as to your profile. Images below contain user profile, watchlist and favorites list. The user profile contains the username you set during account creation which you cannot change. The email you created your account with can be changed, along with your name and age which can be inputted, changed, or completely omitted if you wish.

You know you have successfully added a movie to the favorites or watchlist when you see either of these alerts appear at the top of the page. Both can be closed by pressing the x button.

After the text pop up confirming you have added to the favorites or watch list, you will see these pages, the movie poster will be next to the description. Unfortunately, with the APIs used some movies may or may not have posters or descriptions.

Favorites List

 	Slumberland A young girl discovers a secret map to the dreamworld of Slumberland, and with the help of an eccentric outlaw, she traverses dreams and flees nightmares, with the hope that she will be able to see her late father again. WHERE CAN I WATCH?	DELETE FROM FAVORITES LIST

Watch List

 	The Sea Beast When a young girl stows away on the ship of a legendary sea monster hunter, they launch an epic journey into uncharted waters - and make history to boot. WHERE CAN I WATCH?	DELETE FROM WATCH LIST

From this point you can click the blue button saying “where can I watch?” This button, when clicked, will give you a list of the streaming services offering the movie.

As shown by the image above, some movies can have multiple places where they can be watched, and even have them in different resolutions including 4k, standard definition and high definition. Clicking these links will take you to the site the movie can be watched on in the same tab. If you would like to avoid this, right click the link and click “open in a new tab”. If you changed your mind about watching this movie, you can click the close button to close the pop up window.

After this you can pick the streaming service preferred and enjoy your movie! If you would like to navigate back to the homepage or any other page located in the website you can do so using the avatar panel as stated above. Thank you for choosing Popcorn for your movie finder!
